WAGING CHANGE shines a light on an American struggle hidden in plain sight: the women-led movement to end the federal tipped minimum wage for restaurant workers. Most people serving food in U.S. restaurants are paid a federal sub-minimum wage of only $2.13 an hour. They are forced to depend on tips to feed themselves and their families. Women, who hold two-thirds of all tip-based jobs, are especially affected. Their reliance on tips leads to pervasive gender discrimination, sexual assault, and sexual harassment at the hands of customers, coworkers, and bosses.

View the trailer @ http://wagingchange.com/trailer

Virtual Screening Event & Panel

THURSDAY

OCTOBER 15

Film Screening @ 6PM

Panel Discussion @ 7PM

Post-film discussion with Sylvia Allegretto, Yamila Ruiz, Abby Ginzberg, and Cheadza Kundidzora

Access the watch page @ https://www.wmm.com/waging-change-october/

Use password: WCOCT

The film can be viewed here from October 9th through 18th